Parents who have dual custody, with no support being paid to either parent, will also need to supply both parents' income verifications. The "household members list" from both homes will also be needed to determine eligibility. However, if child support is paid to either parent, then only the income of the parent receiving support will be required along with the child support documents. The information submitted is confidential and will be treated in accordance with Federal Law and Nez Perce Tribe policies. I understand that providing false information may result in denial of services.
